CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 14.—To be called a "Hun spy" unjustly brings a reward of $50.

So ruled Judge William P. Henderson in the case of Aaron H. Weinstein, who sued Harry Spitzer for $25,000 damages, because the latter applied the epithet to him a year ago during a heated argument.

A campaign is underway in the District to enroll 25,000 school children in the United States school garden army.

Already 400,000 packages of garden seeds have been purchased by the children and planting will take place shortly.

In the school and home gardens we have the making of better and healthier citizens—the creation of the longing for a bit of land—the creation of a desire for a home," says a bulletin expressing the consensus of belief of governors, parents, educators, and business men, who are encouraging to the utmost extent the enlistment in the school garden army, which now totals nearly 3,000,000, including regiments in the Philippine Islands and Hawaii.

gathered from those famous lands—and Murads are both charming and thrilling.

True they are a little more expensive than ordinary cigarettes—but oh, such a difference!
